

BITS provides thought leadership, and cutting edge programming to strengthen organizations through increased preparedness and better implementation practices for regulation, and threats in the technology arena. Along with all members of the Bank Policy Institute, BITS has members from across the diverse financial services industry including; insurance firms, asset managers, card companies, financial market utilities, and trade associations. These members are part of the BITS Affiliates program, which is open to financial institutions, utilities, associations and industry groups, and other financial entities with a stake in and impact on the U.S. financial system. BITS Affiliate members benefit from and contribute to a broader perspective on cyber security, fraud prevention, technology innovation and the peoples and processes that comes from the cross-industry nature of the group.
